Maternity Records
NHS Fife is now using an electronic record called Badgernet, to document your maternity care. This is a safe and secure way of recording your information which is available to all the professionals involved in your pregnancy and birth.

Badgernet – Patient Portal (maternity notes)

INFORMATION FOR PATIENTS
Maternity Notes is a tool which allows you to see your maternity record electronically from your own device. It is not the full record but a summary of your care. The tool has the ability for you to record information yourself, but does not allow your midwife to communicate back to you electronically. Anything you add to this can be discussed at your next appointment with your midwife. All information is held securely and cannot be accessed without the appropriate login details.

ACCESS ON YOUR PC OR TABLET
Your midwife will ask you for your contact details and a security phrase.
You can then login to www.pregnotes.net. After entering your email address (username) and security phrase, this will generate a confirmation code which will be sent by text message. This will allow you access to the system from then on.

ACCESS ON YOUR SMARTPHONE
Download the Badgernet Maternity Notes app from the relevant App Store and follow the instructions as above.

You are responsible for keeping your information secure, e.g. password.

Antenatal Care
Your care maybe shared between your midwife, GP (if requested) and obstetrician depending on your level of risk or at your request.

We promote normality wherever possible, offering homebirth, our midwife led unit or consultant led unit as delivery choices. Please make sure you fully discuss and understand your care choices with your midwife / obstetrician.

Your antenatal appointments and care will generally follow national guidelines. Appointments normally take place in the GP’s surgery or in hospital clinics.

We also have a Day Care Ward – Monday–Friday 09.00-16.30hrs and Maternity Assessment Unit open 7 days.

Care in labour
Contact with the midwives can be made by phoning the relevant unit and the staff can advise you if and when to come into hospital.

Research has shown that staying at home in a familiar environment can be beneficial in establishing labour.

Your health and progress in labour will be regularly monitored. We will also be monitoring your baby’s heartbeat during labour.

As well as having facilities for a water labour or birth, we also have birthing balls, poles, cushions and mats for your use. If you are to be induced or having an elective caesarean section an admission date will be arranged. Occasionally, this may be delayed due to emergencies arising in the delivery suite, please be patient.

A paediatrician may be present for your baby’s birth. In birth Suites only two birthing partners can accompany you whilst in labour. This may change if an operative delivery is required, your midwife will advise you.

Due to the high level of activity in the hospital, we ask that your visitors do not “wait for news” in the hospital or phone for information and advise them that you or your partner will get in touch.

Postnatal Care
Staff will support, educate and advise you about caring for yourself and your baby.

You and your baby will be checked by the midwife and other health staff, to make sure you are recovering well from the birth.

Then you may be transferred to the maternity ward or sent home directly from the delivery ward after about 6 hours. Your baby will also have a thorough examination and a hearing test usually before going home.

Partners may accompany you when you are being admitted but will need to adhere to visiting times after your admission. Partners may stay overnight if you have a single room.

The only children visiting should be your baby’s own brothers and sisters. Children should be supervised at all times.

The number of visitors at any one time is two per bed. Visitors may be asked to leave if any treatment or tests need to be carried out.

Tea and coffee (self service) is available for patients only,
(Postnatal care continued) throughout the day. A menu is circulated daily for your choice of meals. If you have any special dietary requirements, please let the staff know. Due to the risk of food poisoning visitors are requested not to bring cooked food to the hospital.

There is a dining room in the hospital grounds as well as several retail outlets within the main building.

Personal property: we cannot accept liability for loss or damage to your property. You are advised not to bring anything of value into the hospital.

A community midwife will visit you at home for up to 10 days (or longer if necessary) after which your care will be handed over to the health visitor.

Breast feeding support workers may also visit to give additional support.

Special Care Baby Unit

Babies who need close observation and specialised care are admitted to the special care baby unit. You will be encouraged to help care for your baby, if their condition allows.

All mobile phones must be switched off before entering the unit.

Please note that the unit only has 2 mother and baby rooms available.

There is a FaceBook page for parent support – further information from SCBU

On occasion you or your baby may need to be transferred to another hospital, depending on the care either of you require.
