When some one dies

Everybody dies eventually

Most people die when they are very old. Some people die when they are younger.

When people die they stop living. This means their body stops working

Dead people do not think or feel anything.
Dead people do not eat or drink.

Dead people do not talk.

Some people do not like to talk about death. It makes them sad. This is OK.

Some people like to talk about the person who has died to help them remember them. This is OK too.

Quality assured by Good Information Fife Team

www.nhsfife.scot.nhs.uk/easyread